Mental Health Counseling and Consulting has invested in advertising in the Mental Health Spectrum magazine, as well as some further website development.

A focus topic is romantic partners, as they are less likely to seek treatment. In partnership, individual and unique needs are not often focused on. Lack of apology from recovering partners can have a negative impact on the relationship and result in resentment. To bring attention to this matter, information and data based on romantic relationships that deal with problem gambling have been included in handouts and other treatment content.

Dr. Reid retired from UCLA last month but will be working part time at UNLV with the psychiatry residents.

Dr. Reid stated he and Dr. Kobe West provided testimonies at the Nevada Bar Hearing as expert witnesses. The case included a student that was embezzling money. Dr. Reid has a presentation for CASAT, as well as a presentation in Washington. Residual funding from last year was applied to a family law attorney, which has never been done before, for a draft document for a postnuptial agreement. This draft document applies to a marital waste agreement that applies to Nevada marriages.

A new cohort of clinical interns has been successfully hired and onboarded. The new staff have been provided with structured training in problem gambling assessment, motivational interviewing, and co-occurring disorders. An informal service training session for current counselors with an emphasis on trauma, informed care, and culturally responsive practices was also held. This training was designed to help recognize the diverse cultural backgrounds of clients and the unique ways problem gambling impacts various ethnic communities. The clinic is currently seeking a Spanish speaking counselor. Peer support services have been prioritized, and the clinic is using the Evive app. Sports betting is the largest increasing

An application to the SOR grant was completed due to how problem gambling can negatively impact adverse treatment outcomes. The program greatly expands the prior integration program. Elements of the GRASP program include workforce education, client education, digital tools, evaluation, and gambling endorsement. Staff time while attending training will be paid for. Opioid treatment programs are being trained on how to integrate the discussion of problem gambling into the education and clinical process. Lessons available in the Evive app will cover opioid and problem gambling treatments and processes, including how gambling can interfere with their recovery from substances. This program is a three year "road map". The first year is focused on getting the project operating, developing contacting, and onboarding programs. Chair Feldman asked if any changes are substantial or likely to have more of an impact than others.
